If you discover a data breach that must be reported:

- You have 72 hours to alert authorities and affected individuals.
- There has been a 40% increase in data breaches in 2016.

Use as many security measures as you can reasonably afford.

- Employ data minimization.
- Encrypt data and devices.
- Document all your efforts.

Some examples may include:

- Leveraging data pseudonymization.
- Being informed of the fair use of their data.
- Requesting access to their data at any time.
- Requesting that their information be corrected.
- Receiving their data in a machine-readable format.
- Requesting that their data be erased.
- Requesting a restriction on processing of the data.
- Objecting to processing.
- Not being subject to automated data profiling.

A company is hit with ransomware every 40 seconds. In order to provide access to personal data and comply with these requests, you’ll need strong backup.
